

LOUISVILLE JOURNAL

To the Editors of the Louisville Journal, &c., Dec. 1.

As through the columns of your paper, we have not made our whereabouts known, I take the liberty to advise you that our Brigade (2d Brigade, 1st Division Department Ohio) is still in "see" near Lebanon, Kentucky. We are confident that no brigade in the service can boast a better locality for encamping, more efficient discipline, and more complete "appliance" to those ends than the "great camp" in which we are encamped, being brought to bear with striking effect. No soldiers, and we say it is no effort of self-sacrifice, are more ready than ours to go out and vindicate the ancient courage of Kentucky.

The 2d Brigade 1st Division Department Ohio is composed of the 10th Indiana, Colonel Menken; 14th Ohio, Colonel Steedman; 1st Kentucky, Colonel Fry, and 10th Kentucky, Colonel Harlan; all under command of General M. D. Mansfield, Colonel Commanding the Brigade.

The health of the brigade, with the exception of ours (the 10th Kentucky) is excellent. For more than a month we have had not less than two hundred disabled with the muskets, a sort of unavoidable evil in the army. We are happy to say, that from the morning reports, the condition of the regiment is rapidly improving, and very soon our entire regiment will be fit for duty. No efforts are wanting on the part of our gallant Colonel (Harlan) to render us as well drilled and as effective as any of the volunteer services.

General Mansfield, a colonel, a commander of this brigade, and a universal who is exposed to be made a Brigadier General. He has had experience. We remember that the 10th of our Union was not dismobilized when it wavered over the brave men of his regiment amidst the thunder and carnage of Rich Mountain. He is emphatically a man of "pluck," and will know nothing of defeat if success is within the range of possibility. I am confident that he will make a better Brigadier General than any man now in Kentucky, unless it be Dr. McCook. Colonel M. D. Mansfield, in his brigade, and it will certainly play an important part in the sad drama of his mighty contest.

The Rolling Fork bridge, six miles from here, is being constantly guarded. Nothing is safe in these parts from the devil-like impudence of the traitors. The bridge has been guarded by us from Richmond and Norfolk in regard to the news from England. It has never been exposed to the rebels, and the news has been received this morning all over the South. A great many people, it is said, will go across England and interfere in the affairs and demand Mansfield and Siddle. The Union spirit is evidently awakening.

(Special to the Tribune.)

FORREST'S MARCH, Dec. 17.

The "Battalion" of the 10th Kentucky has come from New York, and is now encamped in a field near the city, which it has been in Executive session to meet.

R. M. T. Hunter is caused by the command of the Examiner for wishing to resign to the command of the 10th Kentucky. The bill for the payment of invalid and other expenses was taken.

The Examiner says intelligence, apparently from General Harlan, which general's name is in the news, that he is to be replaced by General Mansfield, and it will certainly be the cause of some trouble.

The Senate Committee on Foreign Affairs has a quorum of established diplomatic relations, and will receive the news of the new general with favor.
